Top Trends in Custom Home Designs for Modern Living.

With homeowners wanting spaces that are a true reflection of how they live, this year's trends in custom home designs in NSW are all about style, technology, and sustainability. Whether you work with house designer Sydney and come up with new ideas for your dream home, there are some trends that you need to know so that you are aware of what to decide on its design.

Smart home technology is one of the top trending features you would find in custom home designs in Sydney. From smart lighting and thermostats to security systems, these amenities add convenience, energy efficiency, and comfort. As well as technology, decision-making about eco-friendly materials and sustainability in building is increasingly important for the homeowner who wants to be environmentally responsible and still have a home with style.

Open-plan living is still a feature of custom designer homes in Sydney, enabling light to flow and versatile spaces that are just right for a wine and cheese party or family gatherings. What's more, the modern home trend of simplicity and functionality has also been influenced by minimalist design, clean lines, and natural textures, with inspiration from nature and the environment.

At Designed 2 You we love to design new homes with a focus on exciting trends and your specific thoughts. Our professionals work with you to make sure your new home is not just perfect, but smart, sustainable, and ideally suited to modern living.
